Discrimination, Jobs, and Politics

"Discrimination, Jobs and Politics [is] satisfying because it tells a more complete story . . . than does most sociological research. . . . I find myself returning to it when I'm studying the U.S. women's movement and recommending it to students struggling to do coherent research."—Rachel Rosenfeld, Contemporary Sociology.

The main reason for political discrimination is to prevent individuals from certain backgrounds to change or influence the current political system which are favorable to other groups in power. This is most obvious in the case of minority rule, such as South Africa under the Apartheid system (1948-1994) and Rhodesia (now Zimbabwe) under the rule of Ian Smith (1965-1979).
